Great Writing. Great Value.

Connolly & Company delivers more than great writing. We provide creative ideas, proven skills, a close customer relationship, experience, initiative and excellent value. If you're looking for a company to handle your marketing communications, Web content or editorial project — large or small — we have the “write” stuff.

Our services include writing and project management for a broad range of marketing, advertising, Web site and public relations projects. We've produced hundreds of deliverables, from brochures, ads, feature articles, customer testimonials, speeches and scripts, to newsletters and press releases. We also create and manage editorial content for new and existing corporate Web sites, and we can even handle the HTML coding if you like.

Our clients include the world's leading computer company, a major business software firm, a leading computer reseller, an international marketing organization, and regional businesses and professionals. We are particularly experienced helping clients launch and support new projects and startup programs.

Our company was founded in 1993. We're a family business with two full-time home offices. We use state-of-the-art computers and office equipment. We have more than 40 years of combined experience, much of it with high-tech clients. Connolly & Company is a Limited Liability Company (LLC), registered in the State of Connecticut, and listed with Dun & Bradstreet.

Our rates are very competitive. We can provide estimates on a per-project or hourly basis. We're quick studies and pride ourselves on being able to “cut to the chase” and deliver quality work, on time, at a reasonable price.
